Blackdog Resources Ltd. Announces Approval of Enhanced Oil Recovery Scheme for Woking Halfway B Pool

Blackdog Resources Ltd. ("Blackdog" or "The Company") (TSX Venture: DOG) is pleased to announce that the operator of its light oil property at Woking, 100 km north of Grande Prairie, Alberta has been notified by the Energy Resources Conversation Board ("ERCB") of Alberta that they have received approval to implement an Enhanced Oil Recovery Scheme for the Halfway B Pool on the Company's property.

David A. Corcoran, President of Blackdog commented, "After acquiring the Woking property on May 31, 2009, the Company undertook a comprehensive technical, operational and financial review to enable us to develop a logical strategy to maximize the cash flow and profit from this property. The approval of the Enhanced Oil Recovery ("EOR")/Salt Water Disposal ("SWD") well was a key component to our strategy and we now plan to move full speed ahead to re-enter and re-equip up to 12 light oil wells by the end of Q1, 2010. We believe the EOR/SWD well will allow us to dramatically cut our trucking and disposal costs on our first two producing wells at Woking while also making several other wells with much higher water cuts profitable, which would otherwise have been uneconomic without the EOR/SWD. We also believe the water drive itself should increase our bookable reserves on the property and allow us to bring more oil to the surface quicker."
